

NEW YORK KEEPS BAN ON MIXED FIGHTS

New York, Sept. 11.—There will be no bout between Gunboat Smith and Sam Langford, as proposed, at Madison Square Garden on September 13 nor at any other time as long as the New York state athletic commission, as now constituted, exists.

At a special meeting of the commission here, Jim Buckley and Joe Woodman, respectively managers of Smith and Langford, requested that the rule adopted last year prohibiting bouts between white and negro pugilists be rescinded. The commission, after deliberation, the commissioners refused to change the rule, at the same time giving the applicants to understand that for the best interests of the sport, the prohibition of such bouts had worked well in this state.

What the New Wraps Will Be Like and the edging of fur on the rosettes that finish the cording bow at the neck.

Wide bands of the material cover the arm from shoulder to wrist, opening kimono fashion. To these the material is shirred over a cord in one continuous piece from back to front, the only break coming in the shirring onto the front.

The popular needle-cord of the spring is being reproduced in the heavier boucle weaves of the fall modes. The horizontal stripe is most becoming to a slender figure, but should be carefully eschewed by the woman who has a tendency to avoidpous.

The skirt of the model shown fastens at the left front, and is cut off a foot from the floor in front with a gradual backward lengthening until it just escapes the ground at the back. A broad cord marks the line of the hem on this overskirt. The tiny plain underskirt is of the cloth with the stripe running perpendicular to the line of material. This underskirt is slit over the left ankle.

The coat is cut on far more elaborate lines, and has a very unusual "weekit" of broadened satin which extends in deep points far below the waist line, where it is confined by cords like that used on the skirt. The buttons are of the satin, edged by circles of the cord. Tiny buttons and cords fasten the vest, and a collar and woe revers of lace-edged monoline finish it at the throat.

The sleeves are cut in one piece with the square yoke that extends directly across the shoulder blade at the back. This yoke is edged in the braid, and the draped sleeves are banded with it above and below the triangular inset cuff-piece of the brocade. The lower part of the vest falls in a straight line from this yoke, and is trimmed by great frogs of the braid and brocade buttons directly below the line of the yoke in front.

World's Series No Place for Southpaws

Work of Plank and Marquard Indicates They Will Have Hard Sledding in Final Series—Giants Have a Shade the Best in Pitchers Under Fire.

By JOHN E. WRAY.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 11.—Left-hand pitchers, according to Old Man Dope, will have about as much chance in the coming world's series as a Texas Tommy dancer in a minute.

According to the light shed by the 1913 decisions, Edward Plank, of the Athletics, and Ruben Marquard, of the Giants might as well sit on the bench, unless pitted against each other.

This would be the interesting engagement of the whole series—one in which the merit of managers could be seen; for both teams would have to battle under a similar handicap.

Plank has not been going at all well of late. Perhaps he's not straining himself, and is resting; but the regularity with which he is getting hit for large totals indicates that he is no longer the Plank of old.

Marquard, while he has not had the wonderful season he started out to establish last year, has done well. He won two games from Boston last year, when he was not expected to "coop" at all.

If it comes down to cases, it looks safer to take a chance with Plank and the Athletics, depending on the Mackmen's extra hitting powers to make up any weakening Plank may show.

That Five Inning Show.

The chances are that if Plank fails to strengthen toward the close of the regular season, he will be used only four or five innings.

Following the policy that has won Mack to the front thus far, Plank might be asked to pitch his head off for four innings, while his team endeavored to obtain a big lead. Then one of the young relief men could come to the rescue for the remainder of the game and throw his arm out for four or five more rounds.

There's no reason why the two pitchers per game system shouldn't be superior to the single handed policy. There's this about it—it would kill the "waiting game," which managers use to make a pitcher work his head off in the early innings, so they can rap him when he tires later on.

At this distance from the big series, whatever pitching system black uses, it would appear that the Giants will receive the best flanking—that is, the most reliable pitching under fire.

As an offset there will be the superior artillery of the Athletics' attack, which should in a measure equalize the pitching weakness.

That sums up the situation as between the two clubs; the only thing that seems to be at all favorable one club over the other is the undoubted superior class of the Athletics.

Walter Johnson picks a flaw in Ban Johnson's scheme to abolish the "game won and games lost" feature of the present pitching averages. Johnson wants to reduce the pitcher's efficiency record to something that will show his hits made off him, his strikeout percentage, and other features, and not merely the number of winning games in which he pitched successfully.

Frequently a pitcher's team rolls up a big lead in two or three innings. He then comes up for three innings. He knows it is impossible to catch up the enemy to catch up.

This evening up, however, will make his record look less brilliant. Is the pitcher to go on working his head off for nine innings, when the game is already won, just for the sake of keeping up a streak record?

W. Johnson is right in one way, but the fact that all pitchers would "ease up" under the circumstances, might tend to equalize the situation.

LUNCHEON TO BE IN HONOR OF MARTINEZ

The first fall luncheon of the chamber of commerce will be given in honor of the late Martinez, Sept. 12. It will be held on the roof garden of the Paso del Norte hotel, at noon.

Mr. Martinez, recently appointed president of the commission which is to visit the Latin American countries in the interests of the Pan-American exposition to be held in San Francisco in 1915, will make a 20-minute address.

This opening luncheon is to be made a social affair, and every effort will be made to increase the attendance at all sessions during the fall and winter months.

COUNTRESS SAVED BY DOCTOR IN TUCSON

Tucson, Ariz., Sept. 11.—Margaret Mann, actress, who claims to be the "Countess Margaret Sobieski" and related to the St. Louis Polish family of that name, tried, it is alleged, to commit suicide with poison today. Physicians saved her. She said the grasp-mother of her husband, from whom she was separated, had died, leaving $5,000. She wanted to effect a speedy reconciliation with the count, therefore, but could not locate him. It is said failure on the stage added to her despondency.

MIMBRES FARMERS BUILDING SILOS

Example Set by Ralph C. Ely, of Deming, Is Followed by Progressive Farmers.

Deming, N. M., Sept. 11.—Silos are getting to be things that Mimbre valley farmers are trying their faith to. Not long ago Ralph C. Ely, head of the Little Vineyards 1000-acre farm, and now president of the New Mexico state fair commission, put in two silos, partly below and partly above ground. He quickly saw the great benefits and is now enlarging the two so that they will have a combined capacity of 360 tons, and is building two other underground silos, each of which will hold 180 tons, making for his farm a total silo capacity of 720 tons.

Following the example of Mr. Ely, other progressive farmers have constructed silos of various sizes and it is predicted that the valley will soon lead all other parts of the state. Those recently noted are W. E. Foulks, E. W. Thowbridge, A. S. Wilsey, A. P. Griffin, Albert Ernst, Dr. Connaway and A. W. Brock.

S. A. Lindauer is making a tour of investigation of the Panama canal. His father, alderman S. Lindauer, has just recently returned from an extended tour of the Panama country.

F. G. Davis and wife, educators of Michigan, have arrived in Deming for permanent residence.

Is Growing Peanuts.

Frank Meyer is cultivating five acres of thrifty looking peanuts. He dug up a hill this week that had 96 well developed peanuts.

Lee G. Lester has been investigating conditions in the dry farming districts of eastern New Mexico. He says every visit outside makes him like Deming better.

County treasurer Chris. Rainel and A. A. Smith are in Los Angeles.

Judge Edward Pennington is the new secretary-steward of the Adelphi club.

Although several new houses are in process of construction, Deming needs 100 new good rental houses today, it is claimed.

AGUA NEGRA GRANT TRACT REPORTED SOLD

Texas Said to Have Bought 17,000 Acres Near Santa Rosa; Water-Right to Be Sold.

Santa Rosa, N. M., Sept. 11.—It is reported that a deal has been closed for the Agua Negra grant property, comprising 17,000 acres, a little over a mile south of this place. This property is well watered. It is said that those interested in the water are well known Texas stockmen and bankers. The property will be used for the present for stock raising purposes, but development of a portion of it for irrigation is contemplated. The consideration has not been made public.

Notice has been given of the sale under court decree of the water works plant of the People's Water company, of this place. The plant was constructed three years ago, but was never put in operation. It comprises four miles of pipe line, with distributing system over the principal streets, and a water supply tank of large capacity. The sale is announced for Sept. 24.

The work of remodeling the old court house, which will be used for high school purposes, is well advanced. Completed, and the county high school will open Monday. Present indications are that the school will open with a large enrollment from over the county.

The county road board has purchased some additional road machinery for use on the highways of this county this fall. The board has resumed work and has a crew now surfacing some of the highways, and which will form part of the highway system. Charles Eversole is in charge of the work, which is being done under the supervision of the county engineer, J. H. Hick. Road work has suffered something of a setback in several counties of the state by reason of conflict of authority between the road boards and boards of county commissioners, due to difference in opinion as to the construction of the 1913 road laws. This condition has not developed in this county, and the two boards are working in entire harmony.

Several shipments of hay and alfalfa have been recently made from this point to eastern New Mexico and the Texas panhandle. It is reported that the demand this year will be up to the average.

CLAIM O'KEEFE NOT AMERICAN CITIZEN

Resignation of Nogales Collector Caused by Dispute Over Citizenship; Three Week Place.

Phoenix, Ariz., Sept. 11.—Advices from Nogales are that Con O'Keefe, for seven years collector of customs at that port, has been asked by secretary of the treasury to resign, not because he is a Republican, but because it is claimed he is not a citizen of the United States.

O'Keefe was born in Ireland and was a resident of Jerome when president Roosevelt appointed him collector at Nogales. Prior to the last election he claimed he was a citizen, but the registration officer asked him to refuse to do so.

Among the Democratic candidates for the office held so long by O'Keefe are state senator J. H. Harrison, of Santa Cruz county; Capt. Charles Hardy and Amos O'Keefe, of Tucson.
